

MASTER OF ARTS IN REMEDIAL READING AND REMEDIAL LANGUAGE ARTS

The Reading and Language Development (RLD) Program is deeply committed to preparing graduates who understand the complex and varied presentation of remedial reading profiles, including the profiles of students at risk for and identified with dyslexia.

Graduates are prepared to earn a Connecticut #102: Remedial Reading and Remedial Language Arts cross-endorsement certification, Grades 1-12, and typically seek employment in public and private schools, hospital-based education settings, therapeutic schools, the State Department of Education, the State Education Resource Center, state Regional Education Service Centers; and child advocacy/law firms.

The RLD program offers candidates pursuing a Sixth Year Certificate in Special Education with an option to earn a Connecticut #102 Remedial Reading and Remedial Language Arts cross-endorsement certification, Grades 1-12, as part of their planned program of study.

All candidates in the Reading and Language Development Program serve students and families through several course-embedded community clinics. These clinics provide candidates with the opportunity to apply taught assessment and intervention skills to select students from across the state of Connecticut, under faculty supervision during designated course/practicum hours.
